

Yes on B Communications

Means Video - Script

NARRATOR

Wall Street doesn't want Los Angeles to start a public bank.

The same people who crashed our economy only ten years ago say a public bank is a threat to their business.

The same banks that were ordered to pay billions in fines for defrauding their customers ...and that use OUR tax dollars to finance leaky pipelines and immigration detention centers... say that investments in schools and clean energy are "unfair." Unfair to who? Their wallets?

Los Angeles wastes over a billion dollars in fees and interest to banks every year, that's unfair.

Wall Street's rich enough. Declare financial independence and vote Yes on Measure B."
